

ABSTRACT

B2
An optical apparatus for optical detection of objects whose identifying data is stored in satellite-aided transmission systems and a method for optically detecting objects. An optical apparatus with a fine focus is used to view an object. The distance to the object is detected and data about the object is displayed.
